Ozark Mountain Legacy is a relatively new group of area leaders that have crossed an extremely important line, as far as I am concerned.

This group actually asked for input from teenagers Thursday evening.

Are you serious?

Who came up with the idea to seek input from those who will make up the future of this area?

What a terrific plan!

The young people are our future and their wants, needs and opinions should surely be important to us.

As my generation ages, the reins will be turned over to the present young adults and teenagers, which will affect my future.

I want to know what they think now and how that can change the way I will live in the future.

Better yet, why not let them know that their opinions are valued by actually listening and making an effort to help them turn their ideas into reality.

Way to go Legacy team! Value their input
